Longest Day at Work... In a long time!

Posted by davidmcm77 - 29 Nov 2011 20:54

As the title states, today was the longest day I have had at work in a very long time. BECAUSE I received an email around 10:00am that my WE had been delivered and was just sitting at my house all by its lonesome! I have spent almost two quality hours with it now, and I absolutely love it! It was soooo worth the wait! And I already can't wait till I recieve the ceramic paddles so I can really start turning out some hair popping edges!

Sharing your excitement David!
Hurrah! Have fun and be ready for even more wonder at this fine rig as you get tuned-in to it!

Very best regards

Leo

Today should be my "Longest Day".... but I can work from home so I'm betting it won't be as long as davidmcm77s

Yesterday I got a new Kershaw Ken Onion Leek in the mail; it just may end up being my new favorite EDC. And of course I'll need to polish up that edge just a bit.
