Knife cover
Posted by Jdee - 01 Dec 2011 07:56

What I'm using when I have to be away from a project for a few mins.

Don't want one of My Parrots landing on a blade

Jdee

==========

Re: Knife cover
Posted by leomitch - 01 Dec 2011 08:11

Very clever! I must try that. I have curious cats that are constantly around me when I am sharpening. This will be a good way to protect their little prying noses when I have to leave my work for awhile. Thanks for the tip!

Leo

==========

Re: Knife cover
Posted by wickededge - 01 Dec 2011 11:07

Great Idea!

==========

Re: Knife cover
Posted by babo - 01 Dec 2011 14:31

Me Too! I got a sibling pair from the shelter; male/female about 7 months old. Curiosity and cats and stuff...

==========

Re: Knife cover
Posted by DonLlewellyn - 01 Dec 2011 15:56

I will try that also - have 2 cats but one is always nosing around when I'm sharpening and I worry about him. Great idea!

==========

Re: Knife cover
Posted by dgriff - 01 Dec 2011 16:11

_____

OMG!

A young child is going to come over to explore, reach for the mag and slide it off, dragging their precious tiny fingers down the hidden edge. I'm previewing the nightmares now that I'm going to have tonight. Shudder shudder shudder....

on the other hand, if kids are out of the picture, then it is a very nice, simple solution. Otherwise, a lockable room or high shelf for temp storage while you're away might work.

==========

Re: Knife cover
Posted by Jdee - 01 Dec 2011 16:28

_____

I keep my kids in nice cages at night but they seem to always get out in the day time.

Kids are so smart these days

Its probably more for me when I go to get the phone or the like

Jdee

PS: I get a new camera next week and you all get to see pics of my kids

Tupoc and Lola

I know you can't wait, and a high place will not work for my kids they can fly

Jdee

==========

Re: Knife cover
Posted by leomitch - 01 Dec 2011 16:45

_____

Indeed, I for one am looking forward to seeing your pics. Hopefully too, we will get to see more of your sharpening experiences.

All the best

Leo

==========

Re: Knife cover
Posted by Jdee - 01 Dec 2011 16:53

My first vid has to be tupoc biting a Brazil nut in half in slow motion ,, if the cam works out I will post it.

Jdee

==========

Re: Knife cover
Posted by babo - 10 Dec 2011 11:58

---

should have used a cover a few minutes ago; only takes a split second. About 1 inch long just thru the skin on edge of right hand. A little pressure and super glue and it's good to go.

==========