WEPS Chosera Stone Progression

Posted by jendeindustries - 08 Aug 2011 07:44

I did a WEPS 100, 200, 400, 600 diamond stock stone progression followed by a a 800, 2K, 5K, and 10K WEPS Chosera stone progression and did a blog writeup with microscope pictures at each stage.

Here is the link .

Enjoy!

Excellent results once again Clay. You do such meticulous work and at the same time are informative and clear. I wish I had had you on my teaching staff back when I was in the education business.

Will you continue with the PXL folder and the Choseras tomorrow?

Thanks very much Clay!

Warm regards

Leo

With luck I'll get after the PXL tomorrow. I've got a tight schedule leading into the weekend - heading to the ranch tomorrow and hauling a bunch of equipment to prep for the hunts.

To the ranch eh!! Sigh! Would that I still could get about like most humans can!! LOL! Drive carefully mate!

Looking forward to the beautiful PXL with the Choseras.

Have you tried the Remedy yet?

No, it came while I was at work today, so it'll be there when I get home. I actually had an Addict, which I learned of via your video and I never had a chance to sharpen or even use it. When I saw the first Remedy shots, handle and steel, I realized I wanted it instead, and Mark was gracious enough to help me swap the Addict towards the Remedy as it was still new, which I thought was incredibly cool of him, as otherwise I was going to try to sell it.

I'll let you know how sharpening it goes, I was surprised to see from the video how far forward you clamped and it looks like the wicked edge paddles will reach the whole thing without the need to reclamp.
