New blog
Posted by mark76 - 30 Mar 2012 08:53

Hi guys,

Just wanted to let you know that I have started a new blog on sharpening with the Wicked Edge. I basically write most of the posts for myself, to learn sharpening with the Wicked Edge. But perhaps my learning can help others again or be a source of inspiration, so I'd like to share the posts with the rest of the world. But be prepared for errors and newbie mistakes. I gladly discuss the contents of the blog on this forum or on Wordpress.

The first installment of posts is on creating a convex edge using the WEPS. The second installment, on stropping with diamond compounds, is soon to follow.

Enjoy!

Mark.

Great work Mark! My WEPS is on the way, so I am looking forward to try your method number 2 ☺
Hope to see more installments!

All the best

Lukas

Hey Mark,

Thank you for posting, really nicely done! Great documentation.

By exploring the many paths, one often finds the right one for himself!

Well done Mark! You have helped many to develop a fine convex edge.

Cheers

Leo
