You never know until...

Posted by BruceBarelly - 03 Sep 2012 13:49

...you try.

I had the Spyderco TriEdge: marvelous but my hand are not that accurate when it comes to keeping the same angle for 45 mins.

I just received the DMT Aligner today and I'm returning it tomorrow. I have no words that can describe this sharpener

Mitch (BB) told me it could be a good idea to join this forum (eventhough I don't have the WE...yet).

So here I am, a french guy from London and I'm definitely convinced that I should give the WE a try and hopefully buy it !

Cheers guys.

Bruce

==========

Re: You never know until...

Posted by KenBuzbee - 03 Sep 2012 14:41

Welcome Bruce.

I'm new here myself but there is a wealth of information here and a lot of very helpful folks to answer your questions.

My first piece of advice is to check out the videos (and on YouTube) and you'll get a sense of what the WEPS brings to the table.

I've had mine for a couple months now and turning out some of the best edges I've ever done.

Have fun,

Ken

==========

Re: You never know until...
Posted by BruceBarelly - 03 Sep 2012 14:50

_____

Thanks Ken !

Any kind of best edge on specific steel in particular ?

==========

Re: You never know until...
Posted by KenBuzbee - 03 Sep 2012 15:01

_____

BruceBarelly wrote:

Thanks Ken !

Any kind of best edge on specific steel in particular ?

I've gotten great edges on everything from a vintage carbon steel chefs knife I use daily to a small VG10 Spyderco Balance to my Super Blue Cally 3.5. Lining up to do an S90V Manix 2 in the not too distant future. If I could figure out the mounting I'd do my H1 Spyderhawk but I may just have to mount it up and see what happens

Anything specific you wanted to know about?

Ken

==========

Re: You never know until...
Posted by BruceBarelly - 03 Sep 2012 22:18

I need to take care of my babies:

Fallkniven S1 (VG 10) ... and tiny slightly bit chipped...

Mcusta Bamboo (VG 10)

Benchmade MiniGrip Doug Ritter (S30V)

CRK Small Sebenza (S35VN)

==========

Re: You never know until...
Posted by leomitch - 03 Sep 2012 22:26

WEPS will provide the best care for your babies mate. Give Clay a call my friend. When you are ready!

Best to you chum

Leo

==========