suggestion...
Posted by hammer - 28 Oct 2011 18:24

Any one up for a for sale or wanted section so forum members could sell knives to other members ?

and possibly an open chat section so members could talk about non-sharpening topics..It's just a good way to get to know our forum community better. Not that I'm much of a talker...

==========

Re: suggestion...
Posted by leomitch - 28 Oct 2011 19:13

---

hammer wrote:

Any one up for a for sale or wanted section so forum members could sell knives to other members ?

and possibly an open chat section so members could talk about non-sharpening topics..It's just a good way to get to know our forum community better. Not that I'm much of a talker...

You would have to check with Clay regarding the sale section, but you are free to talk about your knives/collections under Knife Pictures.

Having said that, I am not sure whether Clay's vision for the forum is for it to be a Knife Forum per se or rather a sharpening forum. We shall see when he gets back from the ranch. Meanwhile tell us about your prize knives.

Leo

==========

Re: suggestion...
Posted by hammer - 28 Oct 2011 22:10

Leo...I'm not a Prize Knife type person..I use mine..well some of them, with a few nib spares and I don't have any for sale I was just wondering..like seeing what people are useing and have picked up a few from time to time.

==========

Re: suggestion...
Posted by babo - 31 Oct 2011 08:26

I just had something strange happen during a post. I was replying to a post; selected submit and my screen flashed and the post just disappeared but was not submitted. I reposted and submitted then got a warning message that my posted exceeded the number of allowed characters but then it went thru. Wierd.

==========

Re: suggestion...
Posted by leomitch - 31 Oct 2011 09:26

That is weird! There have been no other reports of that behaviour, so maybe it was a one-time glitch. We will see if it occurs again. Meanwhile, I will let the IT guy know.

Thanks for letting me know with this post.

Leo

==========

Re: suggestion...
Posted by babo - 31 Oct 2011 11:21

No worries, I'm an IT Software Quality Engineer so I understand "glitches". Sometimes they can lead to other unknown issues though so I wanted to send up a flare.

==========