Using the sharpie
Posted by RobertOsterday - 21 Jan 2013 14:22

I am a new user so be kind. I do't understand the use of a sharpie to determine the angle?

==========

Re: Using the sharpie
Posted by cbwx34 - 21 Jan 2013 14:46

Welcome to the forum.

Take a look at this page, and see if it helps....

How to find the angle

==========

Re: Using the sharpie
Posted by 4jlcc - 21 Jan 2013 17:06

Welcome to the forum. Check out this page also to help position the knife correctly in the vise: www.wickededgeusa.com/index.php?option=c...ctions&Itemid=81

==========

Re: Using the sharpie
Posted by ReneLafontaine - 21 Jan 2013 20:47

Welcome in the forum! ... the sharpie is I think one of the most usefull tool that don't come with the WE.

Im a newbi and i've just done a Giesser messer it was pretty usefull to check out the edge angle that the previous sharpener guy did on it.

It's an edition that is not sold anymore. the asian style knife ... one side bevel like shun i would say.

The guy that sharpen it have done a 20° bevel each side and its with the sharpie that ive found that.

finaly i've reprofiled it to 13° one one side and juste grind the burr on the other side... its more like it's suposed to be i gess.... (i have wrote to giesser and ain't got any answer)

So ... put a couple of sharpies in your kit.... you will love it!

==========

Re: Using the sharpie

Posted by mark76 - 22 Jan 2013 05:18

_____

Welcome, Robert! You'll find a helpful community here, so if you have any other questions, please don't hesitate to ask.

==========