Wicked Edge - Wicked Edge Precision Knife Sharpener

Generated: 20 May, 2013, 18:30 New purchase Posted by Sauce - 25 Feb 2013 15:39 Love this knife! Most expensive purchase to date. That title previously held by BM Osbourne 940. F&F is great, smooth deployment, solid lock up, and most importantly, it feels awesome in my hand. Sauce Re: New purchase Posted by cbwx34 - 25 Feb 2013 16:06 Nice.... but what is it? ______ Re: New purchase Posted by Sauce - 25 Feb 2013 16:22 cbwx34 wrote: Nice.... but what is it? Sorry, good question: P. Spyderco Southard Flipper. Spydies first flipper knife. Cts-204P steel. Titanium frame lock. Need just a little more practice before I mount her up in the WE! Thanks again for the pic info Curtis. Did it right from my phone. Re: New purchase Posted by cbwx34 - 25 Feb 2013 16:42 Awesome, thanks. Haven't kept up with Spyderco like I used to.

Glad the picture posting worked. Sometimes I screw up and get it right.

Pics when you sharpen it! ______ Re: New purchase Posted by cbwx34 - 01 Mar 2013 07:54 Sauce wrote: Spyderco Southard Flipper. Spydies first flipper knife. Cts-204P steel. Titanium frame lock. Need just a little more practice before I mount her up in the WE! Ran across a video of this knife being sharpened on the WE... thought it might interest you (if you haven't already found it). Re: New purchase Posted by Sauce - 01 Mar 2013 08:25 Thanks Curtis, seen that one a couple times. I keep up with the videos from smokeeater908, jdavis, m0difiedz and a couple others. Learned alot just from watching! Still lovin the spydie flipper so far. Sauce Re: New purchase Posted by AdrianKing - 04 May 2013 12:40 Just wondering, on that video, why is it he cant put a 30 degree edge on it? I've got a southard and like my 15/15 edges!

Wicked Edge - Wicked Edge Precision Knife Sharpener

Generated: 20 May, 2013, 18:30